Stacy,

I don't quite know where to begin. I'm so glad that we met and went out this year. You're one of the easiest girls to talk to, and I think that the reason people like you so much is because you're a great listener. When someone has a problem you're there and you listen and that's a fine quality. Keep it. You seem to be more of a giving person rather than a recieving one and that's why people like to be around you.

Thank you so much for listening to my problems and even more thanks for telling me yours. I'm glad that our friendship is strong enough that we are able to share our problems and deep feelings with each other. You're the one person who I can really talk to and be comfortable with. I hope that our relationship can remain strong no matter what happens in times to come.

Stay sweet and have the bestest senior year you could possibly have. Senior year is the greatest year of all. Make the best of it. I don't know if I cheered you up or not last night, but I hope I did. I tried. Let's have a fun summer, o.k.?

Love ya Always, '84

P.S. If you ever want to talk just come on over (to Peter Piper Pizza! ha, ha). Keep smilin' baby

RAINY DAYS

The rains come, bringing with them the flood. Classes are held over in first hour as students wait in the hallways, hoping for a letup in the downpour.

Finally the announcement: School is over at 11:00 a.m. Classrooms flood as students rush out, glad for the reprieve from routine. Cars are backed up in the parking lot, as the line to leave grows longer, and those walking soon become drenched.

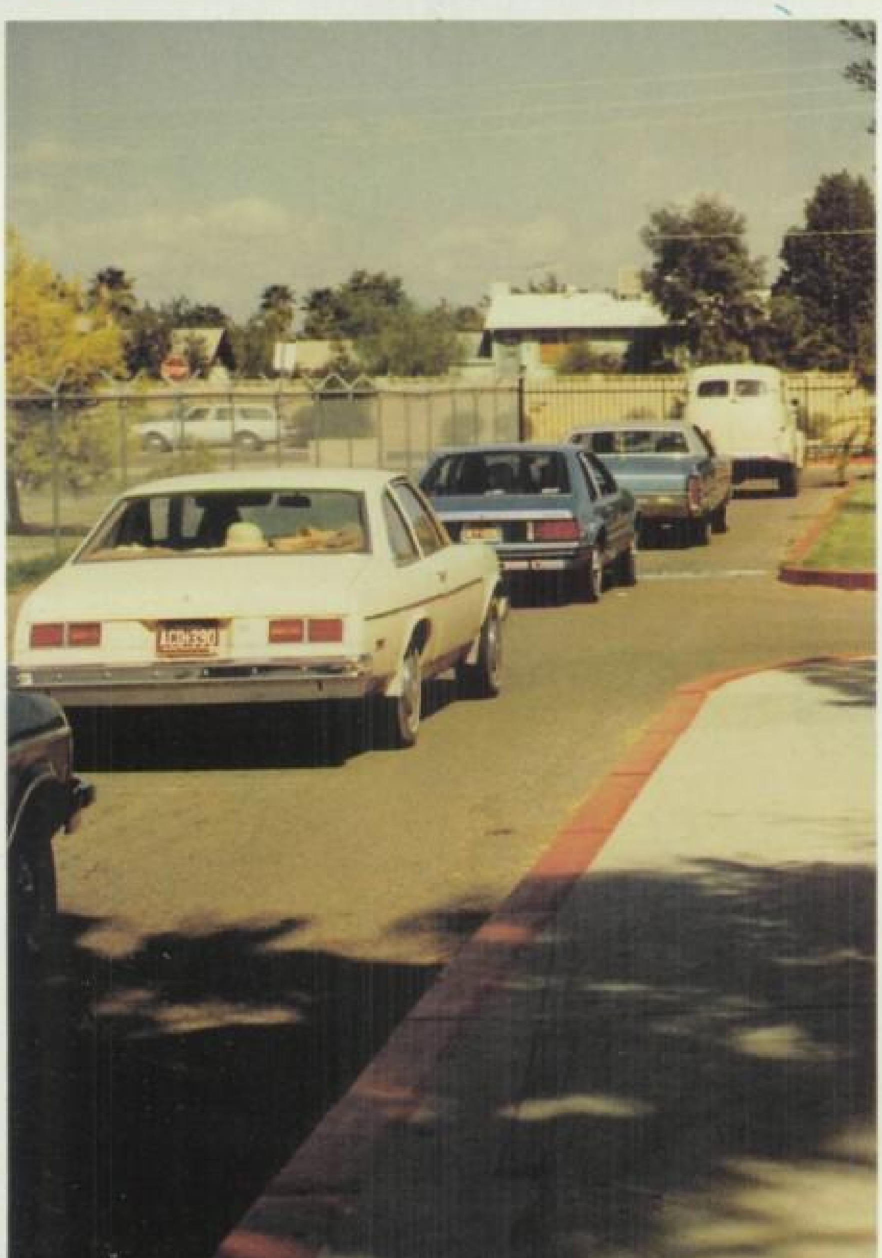

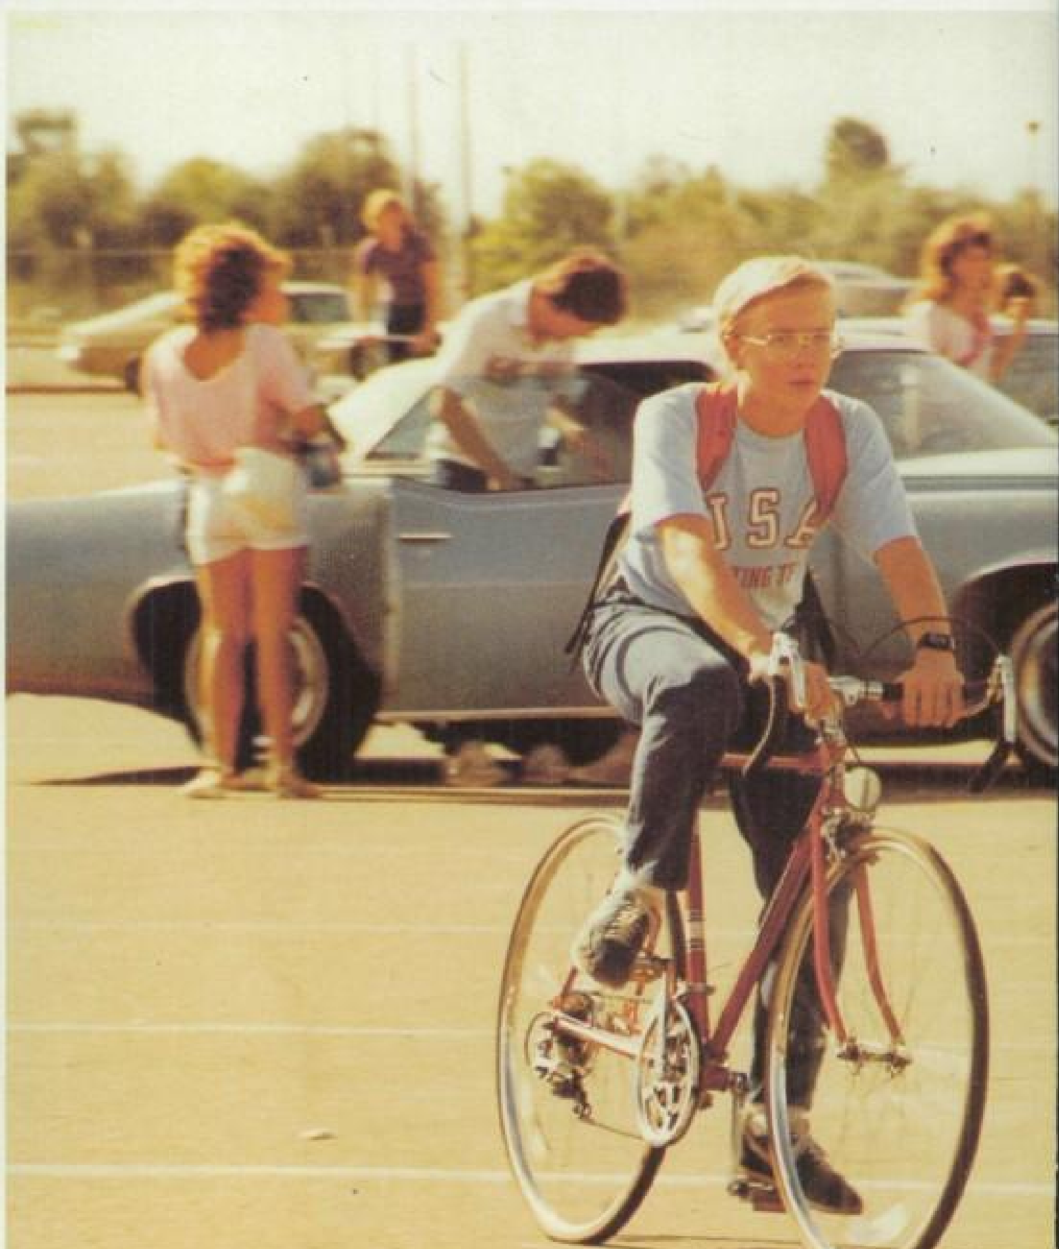

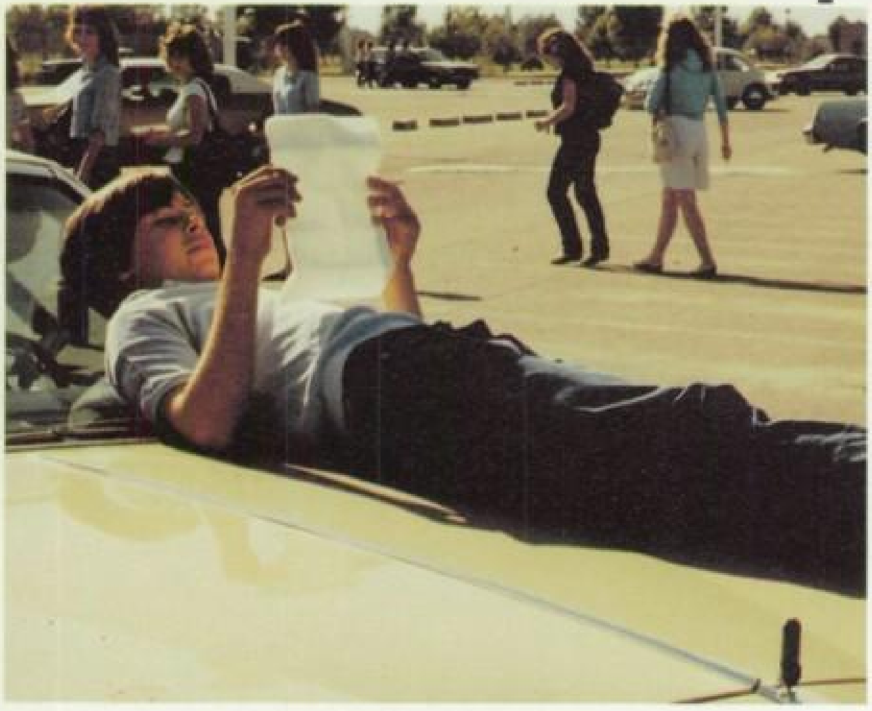

SCHOOL BUS

USA

FROM HERE TO THERE

Rushing to find a place to park, finding the last space, or sometimes making your own. People arriving by bus, car, bike, and feet; scrambling to get to class on time. Then the last bell rings and it's time to go. Dashing to get out; students line up for the bus. Cars backed up, waiting for someone to let them out. Others just kick back till the traffic clears.

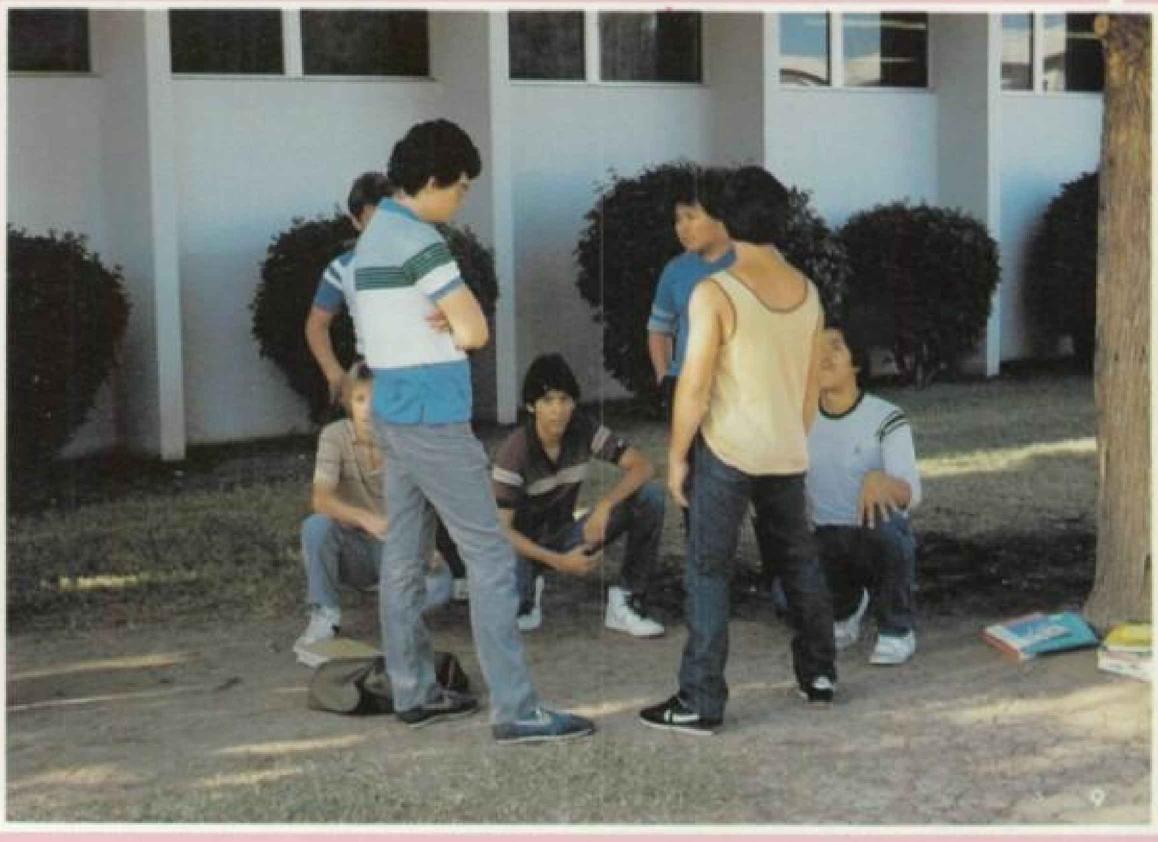

CAMPUS LIFE

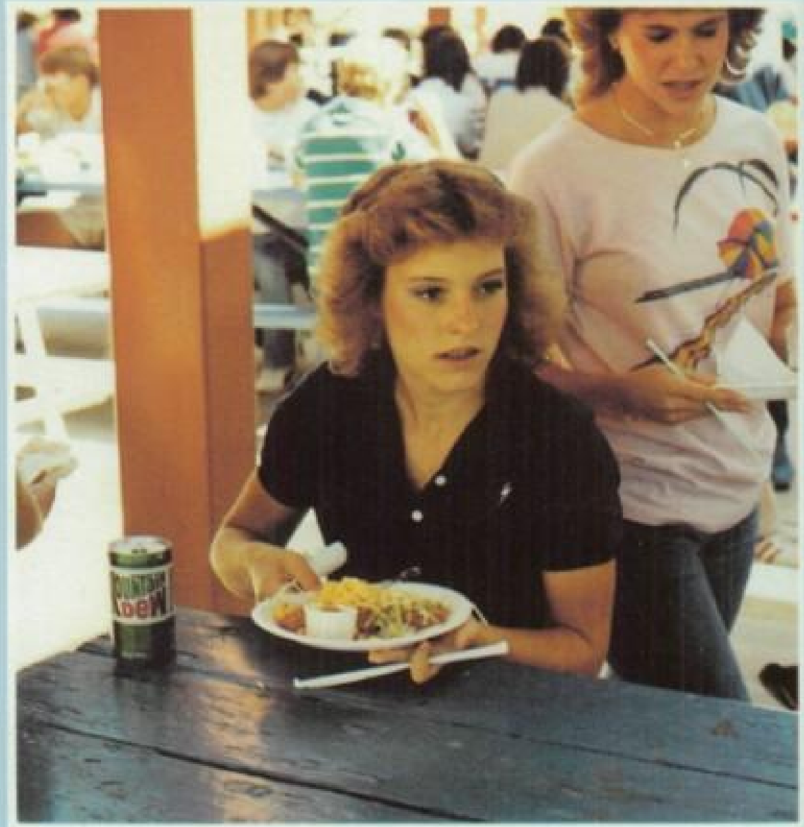

Waiting around for friends, students establish a meeting place, the social hangout for the year. For some, the benches around campus suffice, while others prefer the picnic tables, and still others like the parking lot, much to the chagrin of Mr. Williams. By tradition, the benches by A locker section has always been regarded as senior domain, and down the sidewalk a little ways, the juniors occupy the bench located near B locker, while the frosh prefer the security around lockers E and F. The sophomore class, also by tradition, has always been indecisive, ranging from one side of the campus to the other, year after year.

LUNCH TIME

The bell rings and students are excused for lunch, hurrying to make the most of the thirty-five minutes. Some walk to Mr. Pizza's or Church's Chicken, while others with transportation prefer Taco Bell, McDonalds and the Submarine Shop. After eating, they begin the mad rush to get back to school and in class before the bell rings.

JV SPIRIT LINE

The Spirit Line consists of 12 Varsity and 6 Junior Varsity girls. They are selected in the spring for the following year. The Spirit Line performs dances at pre-game and half-time with the band, does cheers, chants on the sidelines for the crowd, and performs at all basketball games.

VARSITY SPIRIT LINE

HOMECOMING

A time of celebration for our football season. The stands become crowded as families get together to cheer our team to victory. Amid the crowd, are future members of the Big Blue Wrecking Crew. Half time presents fireworks, balloons, and a special routine by the band and spirit line. Moon Valley celebrates as our Rockets beat the Prescott Badgers, 35-0.

HOMECOMING TALENT SHOW

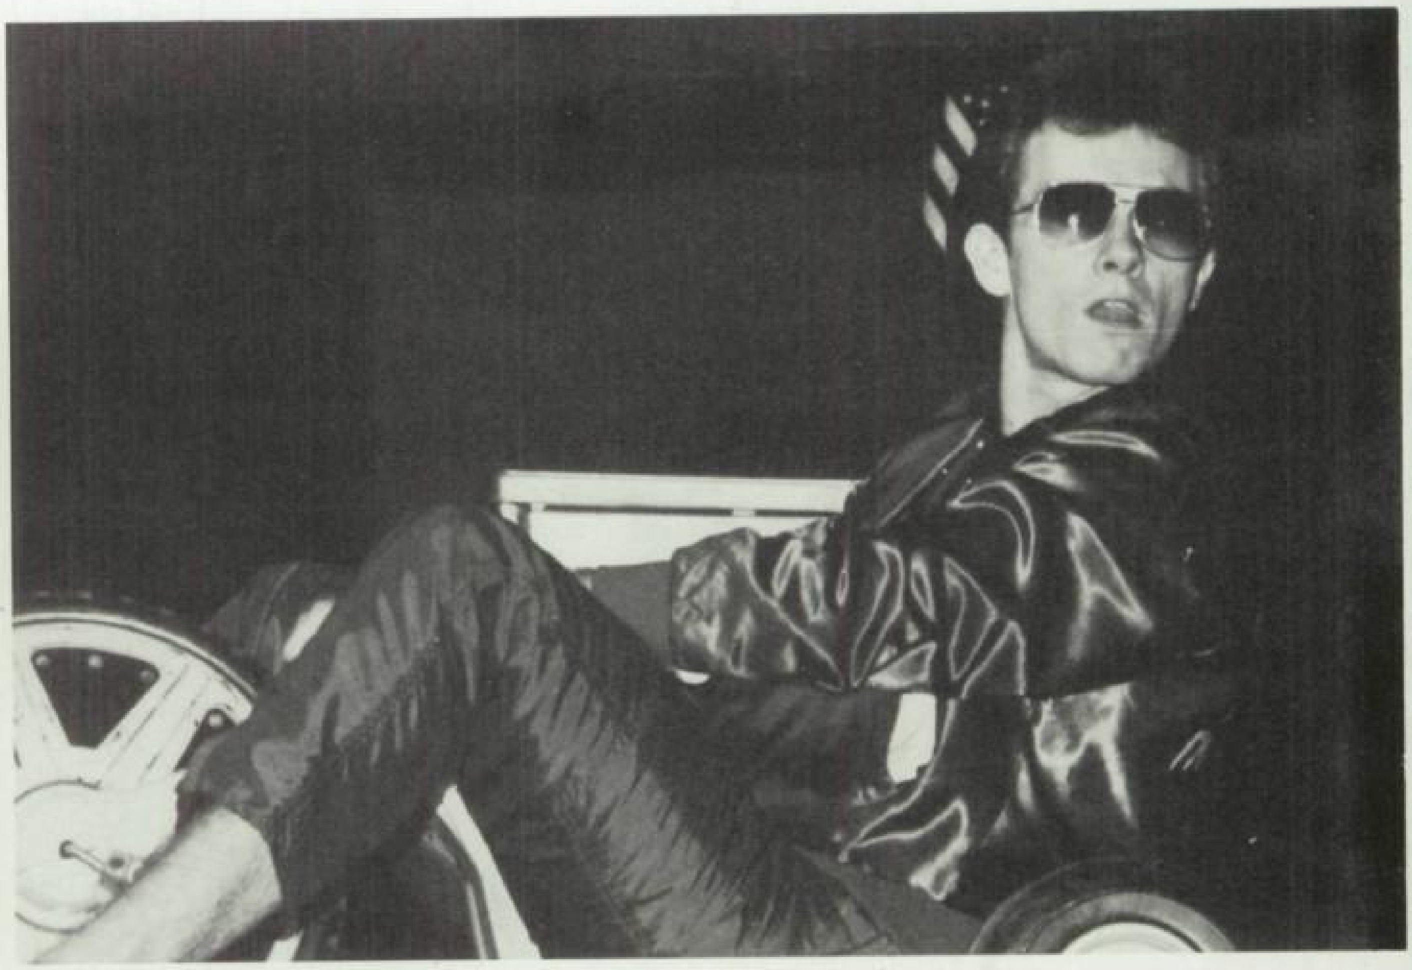

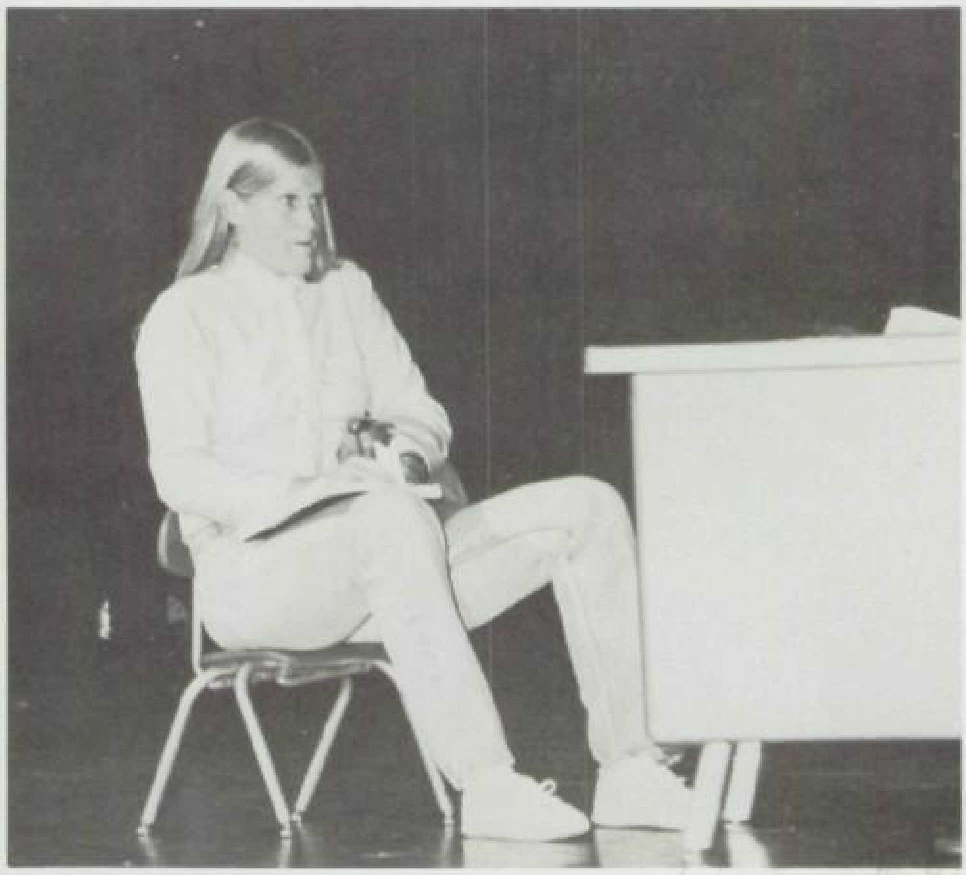

The First Annual Homecoming Talent Show, sponsored by the Student Council, is successful as faculty and students perform musical talents and theatrical antics to the delight of approximately 650 students and parents. Among the memorable performances include; Science teachers Bernard Vehoeven, Arthur Taggart, and Byran Smith as the Happy Whistlers; the team of Cathy and Christine MacDonald who sing Honeybun; Linda Benson as the meek student called in by Mr. Williams played by Mark Paluch; Yvonne Adams who sings 'I'm Just a Girl Who Can't Say No'; and dancer Carol Gosnell, as she performs the theme song from Flashdance.

The wild one Dave Pratt from 98 KUPD introduces the next act on his Big Wheel.

THE TAMING OF THE SHREW

The December production this year was The Taming of the Shrew. A well-known comedy written by William Shakespeare. The play included over 150 students cast, and crews. These students combined their talents and time to produce the story of Baptista's two daughters. The eldest daughter (known as the shrew) Katherina and the younger, beautiful Bianca. Baptista would not allow Bianca to be married until a husband could be found for Katherina. Needless to say, after the long search they found someone. Petruchio, a fortune hunter arrives and agrees to marry Katherina for the money that Baptista had promised to anyone who would marry Katherina.

The play showed how Katherina and Petruchio, or any two people change and learn to understand and love one another. It showed that a deep friendship based on mutual respect is the base for a lasting relationship.

Ms. Kerwin, Director, was "Extraordinarily pleased!" The overall quality of the production (acting, tech. and directing) was that of a professional caliber. Also we got along as a fun loving family and the show was most enjoyable."

The outcome of the play was a total of 1500. The price was around $2,500 money earned went to paying the cost of the set, costumes, posters, tickets, programs and many other things. Many long hours of hard work went into the play but the outcome says it all. Another well done production by the Moonvalley Theatre Department.

Sweeeeet Bianca! Grumio and Hortensio talk of sweet bianca Grumio played by Dean Cote, Hortensio by Kevin Kidney.

Biondello and Luccentio talk of the plan to gain Bianca's love. Biondello played by Robert Hungerford. Luccentio played by Mark Church.

Baptista (played by Mark Pauluch) sends the servant (Cathleen McDonald) to retreat his daughters.

Bianca (Leane Paluch) cries for mercie from her sister Katherina (Jackie Smith).

"Stop the play, There will be no going to jail!!" says, Queen Elizabeth (played by Catherine Degreef).

Petruchio (played by Todd Volz) and Katerine wrestle to the finish. Katerina is yet to give in to this Mad Fortune hunter. Slowly Petruchio wins her respect and love.

1983-84

The year of 1983 had many contrasting events. Disputes with foreign countries weighed in on the heavier side of the scale. The almost war in Lebanon was one of these disputes. It caused tears for many and joy for all when the marines were brought home after nineteen Americans were killed and over 140 wounded. Also during the year, approximately 200,000 West Germans formed a sixty-five mile human chain as a protest against nuclear arms. This little publicized event was not as successful and the protesters failed to get the results they were after. The most controversial tragedy was the shooting of a Korean Airline by the Soviet Union. That Russian missile took a total of all 269 passengers and also the whole crew. Another memorable day of 1983 was Sunday, October 23 when over two tons of TNT were triggered on the marine compound in Beirut. Minutes later another explosion was set off at a French paratroop barrack just two miles North. 239 Americans suffered from that bombing along with 59 paratroopers.

1983 was not at a total loss and there were many not so tragic first time events that took place. One of which was the first American woman in orbit, Dr. Sally K. Ride. Another was Rev. Jesse Jackson, the forst black contender for the presidential nomination. To add to the list of first and for the once shunned black race was Vanessa Williams, who holds the very respected title of Miss America.

Music was also in the headlines, with Micheal Jacksons' Thriller taking a well deserved Grammy for album of the year. He also added seven more to the list making a new record in Grammy history. The music of the eighties had something in it for everybody. Anywhere from Quiet Riot to the B-52's to the Eurthmics, just to name a few.

When the music was hot so were the fads. The first of which were the cute, cuddly Cabbage Patch dolls. Straight from the patch with name and birth certificate included (not without footprints). They seemed to bounce into the world quite easily but possession was not so easy without a pretty penny. Care Bears were also in demand and added another touch to innocence to the time. Just to the other end of the dollar scale, were stickers and buttons. In all shapes and sizes they announced everything from ones name to what type of blood a person had. All in all 1983 was fast paced and full of surprises. The years ahead should only get better.

FASHION

Fashion was one of the biggest industries of 83-84. Still at the top of the list was the ever-so-popular Levis. They were seen everywhere and worn with everything from concert t-shirts to a fancy sweater. One of the styles that was on the come back was that of long shirts over shorter pants. Sweatshirts (ripped or not) were also popular and were worn with just about anything. Another style not so casual and a little more conservative, with a printed pastel sweater worn over colored oxfords usually with cords and topsiders to finish the look. The newest addition to the world of fashion were the nylon parachute pants. These many pocketed pants could usually be seen in every direction.

The accessories that went along with these outfits were almost better than the outfits themselves. Belts went from very wide to very skinny. The black spiked belts were most popular as were the thin ties from the 50's. Hats made a big splash too. Usually grey felt ones were most widely worn. All around everybodies tastes seemed to be satisfied and if they weren't they probably will be in the future.

I am from Hambring, Germany. I have had a really great year here in Phoenix. I didn't have a choice where to come to in America, but I really love being here. I'd like to stay much longer, but I have to go back to Germany, because I have to get more education. I love the weather and surroundings. I'd like to stay longer because the lifestyle is so much looser.

I never liked to go to school but I enjoyed my year at Moon Valley. Everything was so different and exciting. I liked the fact that we were able to choose our own subjects it made learning more fun.

I want to thank every teacher I had and all the students who became my friends. Mostly I want to thank my parents in Germany and my host parents in Phoenix. I am surely going to come back to the United States someday.

I'm from Breining, Germany. I am having a really great year here in Phoenix. I didn't have a choice where to come in America, but I think Arizona is a cool place to live, even if it is different from what I have ever seen. I wish I could stay longer but I must go back to Germany to graduate there from high school. The days the nights (especially the weekends) were long and exciting and I enjoyed each of them. I enjoyed Moon Valley's spirit and the football games were a lot of fun because we have nothing like that in Germany "Thanks" to everybody who helped me with this new way of life and have made it easier for me. This was a lifetime experience that I will always enjoy remembering! Hopefully I will come back to the United States.
